Successful people are people who get things done by ASKING for help. Say YES, learn to ASK for help, and get what you want for yourself and others. We will teach you and your team this simple, life-changing concept! This basic skill is a crucial factor to your personal and professional success. It starts with you, and the wealth is shared by all.

This program offers participants the tools for getting unstuck. It helps them find the courage within to ask for what they want and need from co-workers, bosses, and internal and external clients. It will leave them with the confidence to help support individual, team, department, and company goals and initiatives. We will go through real life role playing to help you break through any fears, doubts or situations you may have. You will walk away with several breakthroughs and leave as a brand new you.

“I have been a high level executive for 30+ years. However, throughout my career, I was never able to “ask” for anything—guidance, a raise, or especially “help.”

Coach Jesse’s “The Year of Asking” workshop was both entertaining and educational... I am finding it much easier to ask for what I want, and have seen tremendous positive outcomes. I highly recommend this workshop.”
